(i) Brute beauty and valour and act,

Oh, air, pride, plume, here

Buckle ! AND the fire that breaks from thee then, a billion

Times told lovelier, more dangerous,

O my Chevalier !

(ii) And for all this, nature is never spent;

There lives the dearest freshness deep down things;

And though the last lights off the black west went

Oh, morning, at the brown brink eastward, springs—

(A-52) P. T. O.

- (iii) A starlit or a moonlit dome disdains
All that man is,
All mere complexities,
The fury and the mire of human reins.
- (iv) Too long a sacrifice
Can make a stone of the heart.
O when may it suffice ?
That is Heaven's part, our part
To murmur name upon name.
- (v) April is the cruellest month, breeding Lilacs out of the dead land, mixing Memory and desire, stirring Dull roots with spring rain,
- (vi) The river's tent is broken; the last fingers of leaf Clutch and sink into the wet bank.
The wind
Crosses the brown land, unheard. The nymphs

- (vii) I too would be happy to meet him. The more people

- (viii) We wait. We are bored. No, don't protest, we are go to waste .....

- (ix) But herein, of course, is some of it's virtue; it is the beginning of the end, the forerunner of Saturday and Sunday. If anticipation, as the moralists say, is better than the realization. Friday is perhaps the best day of the week, for one spends much of it in thinking of the morrow and what of good it should bring forth.
- (x) But no; I am inured, and therefore I merely looked at it twice instead of only once, and passed on with a head full of mental and intensely uncivic pictures of undaunting men, identical in patience and hopefulness, standing hour after hour at the ends of piers all around our coasts.
